Personal Sketches of His Own Times, Volume II Sir Jonah Barrington

This is volume two of three and was originally published in 1830; this one is the third edition and was published in 1869.

A short summary from the Preface:

The first edition of the Personal Sketches of his own Times, by Sir Jonah Barrington, Member of the Irish Parliament, and Judge of the High Court of Admiralty in Ireland, was published in 1827; a second edition appeared in 1830, and a supplementary volume in 1832. The third volume has become not only scarce but a curiosity. The whole work is now presented to the public complete, with such revision as circumstances required. Its value will be easily conceived. It amply presents the most striking features of a social state, such as never existed in any part of the civilised world, save in Ireland, in Barrington's time. The most wonderful portions of these Sketches are such as owe least to the author's invention or vivacity ; and they will also be the most suggestive to the moralist and the legislator.

The additional matter has been limited to necessary illustration. The memoirs of Mrs. Jordan and of Sir Jonah have been drawn up with care, and from reliable sources, with a rejection of trivial gossip. The article on Irish Wit and Humour, it is hoped, will be acceptable as a contribution to the general temper of the work. The illustrations of this article are original, and have never been published till now. This edition is confidently entrusted to candid criticism.
